Have your say

The opportunity to have your say...

The forums will provide an opportunity for community members to discuss and debate issues such as:

- ◆ How do people take care of their health?
- ◆ How do people make decisions about their health?
- ◆ What are the government's and individual's roles in preventing illness and promoting good health?
- ◆ What are people's expectations of health and wellness?
- ◆ How do health records help people to manage their health?

The opportunity to learn...

Participants will have an opportunity to learn about important health issues, listen to different opinions, and have their say. You don't have to be an expert – just be willing to listen and share your opinions.

What are the outcomes?

The Australian Institute of Health Policy Studies will prepare a report on the outcomes that will be given to government policy-makers and private health insurers.

What does it cost?

The forums are free. There is no cost for attending. We will provide food and all the materials you need.

Places are limited – prior registration is essential.
